The evening was spent in games and social intercourse until quite a late hour when the guests departed voting that the "informal" party is the most fun of all.
An exchange says when the editor makes a mistake in his paper all the world sees and calls him a fool. When a private citizen makes a mistake nobody knows it but a few friends and they come around and ask the editor to keep it out of the paper. When a private citizen dies the editor is asked to write of his good qualities and leave the bad out. When the editor dies the private citizen says: "Now that darn liar will get his deserts."

Going out to see the rotary? was the question with which every one was greeted last Saturday, and indeed the crowds that wended their way westward would lead one to believe that not many were intending to miss seeing it. On account of the deep cuts and the unusual weight of the snow the rotary made slow progress. It left Collier shortly after noon, but did not reach Wa-Keeney until about 6.30. It is a sight worth seeing and as the rotary is not often used on these roads, afforded the people an opportunity which they seldom have of seeing one. Some of the country people had to return home before its arrival much to their disappointment.

The report came to Ness Wednesday of a man residing between Arnold and Utica who was driven to desperation by the suffering of his stock. He was out of feed and could get none at either town. His ten head of cattle were starving, and unable to endure the sight of their suffering, he released them from their slow torture by killing them. —Ness County News.

One of Jesse Courtney's little boys had an experience last Saturday when he ran under the big stream of snow from the rotary. He was buried so quickly under its weight that Jack Evans who happened to be near and going to the rescue found he would have to shovel him out. The little lad was none the worse for his experience but was rather frightened. One of the daily papers this week stated the death of a twelve year old boy from the same cause. Better be a little careful about the things you know nothing about.

The rotary left Wa-Keeney last Sunday morning very early and arrived at Ellis in the evening thus breaking up the blockade that had cut off all traffic from the east and west for a week. On Monday morning the postmaster arose at four o'clock and went to the depot where a wagon load of mail awaited transportation. The dray hauled it to the postoffice and from then on until evening the postmaster and clerk had a good steady job. This wagon load of mail was handled and gotten out of the way much to the satisfaction of the office force as well as an anxious public who had been waiting for mail for a week. Things are now moving along fairly well excepting a coal shortage which has put the dealers as well as the patrons on the anxious seat.

MARKET REPORT

Kansas City Stock Yards, March 19, 1912—Cattle sold steady to strong yesterday, some light steers and good heifers 10 higher, but heavy steers barely held steady. Today the run is 8500 head, and prices are steady to 10 lower on killing grades. Fine weather the last few days has put spirit in the stocker and feeder trade, and those kinds are selling higher. Best feeders bring $6.40 to $6.90, fair to good 900 pound steers at $6 to $6.40. Stock steers bring $5.25 to $6, with exceptions both ways from these figures. Top feed steers today sold at $7.90; with three-fourths of the supply selling at $7 and upwards. Prime native cows bring $6 and $7. Forty cars of quarantines have arrived in two days, containing quite a number of yearlings, steers in this class at $6 to $6.50, and heifers around $5.50, heavy quarantine steers at $6.10 to $6.75.
The early estimate called for 12,000 hogs today but only a few came in. Prices opened five higher, but this grew to 10 to 15 higher before the close, top $7.10, bulk $6.75 to $7, pigs, $5 to $5.75. Packers claim they are losing money on every porcine animal bought at these prices, but there must be compensation for them somewhere, perhaps in higher prices for stock of product. The future of prices depends on volume of receipts, on the prospects for which there is little to base speculation.
Sheep and lambs advanced 10 to 15 cents yesterday, and prices are 25 to 30 cents higher today. Dealers say the rise will stick. Best lambs $7.75 today and practically all the crops sold at $7.30 to $7.55. It is necessary to go back to June, 1910, to find a price that will compare with sales today. Ewes sold at $5.55 today, yearlings, $6.25 and prime weathers would bring $6.

Dear Amy—

The other day, I went over to call on our old schoolmate, Laura. She didn't seem very comfortable even when I, an old friend came in; because I could plainly see that she was ashamed of her shabby parlor. She confided to me that although her husband would give her plenty to buy clothes with, so she could make a good appearance in public, he would not let her have money to even fix up the parlor.

Isn't it dreadful for a nice girl like Laura to have to stand a thing like this.
